If a man knew what his acquaintances really thought of him he would go away somewhere and do the hermit act.

Wigg—"They tell us there is no marrying in Heaven." Wagg—"No; cold rush in where angels fear to tread."

It would be interesting to know how the members of the servant girls' union refrain from breaking the rules.

If the average man could only sell the advice he gives away it would keep him busy looking after his income.

The woods are beginning to take on tints that convince one that the Lord keeps no amateur artists in his employ.

A moral coward is a man who stops to beg the world's pardon every time he sets his foot over the edge of the narrow path.

As a man gets older, he reflects that in his day he has known too much of everything at some time except cream.

A man is a perfectly satisfactory husband if he can ask the preacher to say grace without showing any embarrassment.

A tramp can't understand why the Sabbath is called a day of rest; he can't rest any more on Sunday than on weekdays.

The person who smiles when over-taken by adversity is the one most likely to weep when adversity overtakes another.

Hook—"I don't know how we are going to keep warm this winter." Nye—"Easy. Just think over the coal strike situation, and that'll make you hot."

When a woman is dead sure that it's a cat, and not a burglar, she makes her husband go down stairs to see about it so as to be able to brag how brave he is.

Mrs. Fred Unrath.
President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

SOMETHING NEW IN UNIFORMS

"The Mobile and Ohio railroad has inaugurated its dining car service between St. Louis, New Orleans and Mobile. A striking innovation is the uniforms worn by the conductors. Garbed in silk-faced, brown broad-cloth tuxedos, with trousers to match and high cut vests of white, corded pique, with gilt buttons, they present a natty appearance. The color and the absence of all insignia, to say nothing of the evident expensiveness of the material and the workmanship, constitutes a marked departure from all established precedents in railroad uniforms, and is very pleasing to the passengers."—From the St. Louis Daily Globe-Democrat, Monday morning, September 1, 1902.

People who are most adept at disguising flattery are usually the most popular.

Man's ingenuity is responsible for the elastic conscience. Nature never made one that way.

An Ohio genius has invented an instrument for piercing the ears without pain. Every third-rate vocalist should use one.

Somehow it is a great shock to hear a woman complain that she has eaten too much; people expect this lack of sense in a man.

"Opportunities are pretty much like social calls," says the Manynunk Philosopher. "They generally come when you're out."

It is our opinion that a woman looks ridiculous at all times when she is hurrying, except when she is hurrying to get dinner.

It is the man who says that newspapers are not read who is most anxious to have his name left out when he gets into trouble.

He—"It's funny that at a wedding the fellow who is getting married seems so unimportant." She—"Oh, he's a mere ringer."

A man who has gotten out of his first love affair feels like the man who has fallen over a precipice without breaking any bones.

Be good to your children. Then, perhaps, they will remember it when the day comes when you are a "problem" on their hands.

A woman's idea of a dutiful husband is one who will stay at home and look after the baby while she spends the afternoon shopping.

The pretty red apples on the trees are not fit for anything yet but apple sauce. If you want to retain your admiration of them, keep your teeth out.

What has become of the woman who could make an apple pie that wasn't as mountainous as Colorado, with hard chunks of something under the crust?

The average girl lords it so around her home, that when she has married and gone, her mother begins to creep out more, like a mouse when the cat is missing.

NEW USES FOR RIBBON.

Made into Flowers and Bows for Dress and Hat Ornamentation Very Attractively.

Thirty bright yellow stamens, a branching, aggressive pistil and a round place for them to grow upon, and you have the center of the latest thing in ribbon flowers, reports the New York Herald.

They tried at first making them wholly out of gathered ribbons, but that only produced roses in bud form. Then the ribbon flower bloomed anew into great, flaring, bright eyed beauties, that make the windows of shops mightily attractive.

Ribbons used to be thought capable of being worn in just one way—as ribbons.

Now they have grown into a dozen uses entirely distinct and apart from that.

First they were employed as "couch" work on fancy things that women made and after awhile they even left the field of sash and tie and became "draw strings" in the undershirts.

Now, in the general outburst in the use of ribbons, they are no longer knotted or bowed or wired into loops for hat trimmings, but are shirred over wire loops and form butterflies, from which depend myriads of tiny bows.

The roses, bulbs and leaves are so cunningly devised that, as they rise from blue or pink stems they have a quasi-natural appearance, and often adorn a corsage in lieu of real flowers.

The pink and red and yellow and white "single roses" for the hair are made in satin ribbons, and nestle back of the ear like those in old-fashioned miniatures, only these are fadeless.

Ruffles of ribbon are worn, and ribbon forms insertions in dress goods, is made into stocks and used as puffings on the edges of various useful articles. It is made into garters and into numberless articles of fancy work, among which are "all piece" sewing bags, the opera glass cases and eyeglass holders.

Ribbons have been found useful, because they lend themselves to so many purposes in their natural form. They have a finished edge when the selvage is wanted, and they can be twisted into a bow when all other things fail. They are useful substitutes for cigarettes in the cuff, and nothing so good for a belt has been found. They make the faintest of reins for a cottillon, and the flowers into which they are formed this year suggest confetti time.

RULES FOR POPULARITY.

Eight Which Every Young Person of Either Sex Would Do Well to Follow.

First—Remember that a good voice is as essential to self-possession as good ideas are essential to fluent language. The voice should be carefully trained and developed. A full, clear, flexible voice is one of the surest indications of good breeding, says the New York World.

Second—Remember that one may be witty without being popular, voluble without being agreeable, a great talker and yet a great bore.

Third—Be sincere. One who habitually sneers at everything not only renders herself disagreeable to others but will soon cease to find pleasure in life.

Fourth—Be frank. A frank, open countenance and a clear, cheery laugh is worth far more socially than "peantries in a stiff cravat."

Fifth—Be amiable. You may hide a vindictive nature under a polite exterior for a time, as a cat makes its sharp claws in velvet fur, but the least provocation brings out one as quickly as the other, and ill-natured people are always disliked.

Sixth—Be sensible. Society never lacks for fools, and what you consider very entertaining nonsense may soon be looked upon as very tiresome folly.

Seventh—Be cheerful. If you have no great trouble in your mind you have no right to render other people miserable by your long face and dolorous tones. If you do you will generally be avoided.

Eighth—Above all, be cordial and sympathetic. True cordiality and sympathy unite all the other qualities enumerated and are certain to secure the popularity so dear to every one.

Tired Feet and Tired Nerves.

Nervousness is unknown in the Celestial empire because the only foot-wear is of soft, thick, silent felt, almost without heels, and it may be said that the ill-shaped, hard, noisy shoes with heels of varying height worn by the western nations have their effect upon the nervous organization of the wearers. There can be no doubt that we would be more even-tempered if we wore soft, noiseless shoes, at least indoors. After a laborious day it is inexpressible relief to exchange the thick-soled, stout shoes for a pair of soft house slippers. Tired feet and tired nerves will find much relief in a hot foot bath with a handful of sea salt thrown in. Let the feet remain in the water till it is cool, then dry them with a rough towel and don clean, warm stockings and soft shoes. Tender feet may be invigorated and hardened by rubbing them with alcohol at night, and also by wrapping them in a bandage wet with alum water.—American Queen.

Philadelphia Potatoes.

A new dish is Philadelphia potatoes. Boil small new potatoes in their jackets and let cool, then skin them and cut in thin slices. For three cupsful so prepared make a sauce with one heaping tablespoonful of flour, one and one-half cupsful of milk and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Butter a shallow dish, put in half of the potatoes, season them, add half the sauce, then the remainder of the potatoes and sauce. Over all pour a well-beaten egg and bake in a quick oven until the egg is set.—Albany Argus.
